

7)

The association between the socio-economic class of the adoptive parents and IQ is not significant while that the association between the socio-economic class of the biological parents and IQ is significant, after accounting for the association between IQ and the other factor.

The explained variation is very low (39.3%). By including more variables, we could potentially explain more of this variation and have a model with a higher R-sq and usefulness.